

How to Host Your Videos on systeme.io

Introduction

systeme.io makes hosting videos, images, and audio straightforward, with unlimited storage for your media. You can share video on blogs, funnel pages, and inside courses and memberships.

You can either add a video using a URL, add a video with an embed code, or host on systeme.io by uploading the file to your account.

What You Need

- A systeme.io account (plan)
- A page to edit, or a course lecture
- A video file on your device, or a link/embed from YouTube, Vimeo, etc.

Three Ways to Add Video

- Direct link — paste a URL from YouTube, Vimeo, or similar
- Embed code — paste the host's iframe or embed snippet
- Upload file — host the file on systeme.io (this guide's focus)

Upload and Host a Video File on a Page

1. Navigate to the page where your video will be shared and click Edit page
2. Inside the editor, scroll the left panel to the Video element. Drag it onto the page where you want the player
3. Click the video on the canvas to open settings. Under Video type, open the drop-down and select Upload file
4. Click the upload video option and select the video file from your device
5. Wait for the upload to finish. Your video is now on the page and hosted on systeme.io

Save Your Page

Click Save to store your progress. Preview the page to confirm playback.

Videos in Courses

Inside a course lecture, you can upload a video in the lecture editor without using the page builder—ideal for lesson content. See how to create a course for modules and lectures.

Troubleshooting

Upload fails or stalls

Check file size limits for your plan; try a compressed export or use URL/embed for very large files.

Video does not play after save

Confirm upload completed and Video type is Upload file, not an empty URL field.
